1. A member can make an application to split contributions in the following two scenarios:
  - i. in the financial year following the year in which 'splittable contributions' are made; or
  - ii. in the same financial year that they are contributed immediately before a member rolls over or transfers their entire benefit.
2. Contributions may be split with an 'eligible spouse' on the following basis:
  - the maximum amount that may be split in a year is the lesser of 85% of the concessional contributions and the concessional contributions cap for the financial year.
  - non-concessional contributions made after 5 April 2007 cannot be split.
3. The following contributions are not splittable:
  - those subject to a family law payment split;
  - any that have been transferred or rolled over to a superannuation fund (this includes overseas superannuation benefits); and
  - those that have already been subject to an application for contribution split.
4. If at the date your application to split contributions is received by the Trustee, you will not be able to split contributions if your spouse is 65 years or older, or is aged between their relevant preservation age and 65 years, and is permanently retired from the workforce.
5. The minimum transfer and acceptance amount that can be subject to contribution splitting is $5,000.
6. There must be a minimum balance of $5,000 remaining in the Transferor Spouse's ClearView Superannuation and Roll-overs account after the contribution split.
7. A Member can only make one application to the Trustee to split contributions in a financial year.
8. If the Trustee agrees to split contributions the relevant amount will be transferred to either the Receiving Spouse's account in the Plan (if applicable) or to a complying superannuation fund or RSA as soon as is practicable and in any case within 30 days.
9. If you intend to claim a deduction for personal superannuation contributions made during the relevant financial year, you must complete Section 3 in this Application Form. Otherwise, you will not be able to claim a tax deduction in respect of the relevant contributions.
